

Symlicity Access is the leading educational solution for managing student special needs

Through its intuitive, mobile-friendly student interface, it's easy for students with disabilities to find how they can get the support they need.

Often times, students develop a disability part-way through their course and need a quick way to find where they should go to get assistance. Symlicity Access helps here through an online student request process, as well as helping universities and colleges create the necessary student support plans and get them communicated and approved online by the relevant academic and support staff across the institution.

Bringing together all stakeholders to support students with disabilities has the added advantage of real-time data communication & real-time reporting to inform decision making to enable continuous improvements to the ways students with special needs are supported.
